COMMISSIONER OF PATENTS AND TRADEMARK
P.O. BOX 1450

SUPPLEMENTAL DECLARATION UNDER 37CFR § 1.132

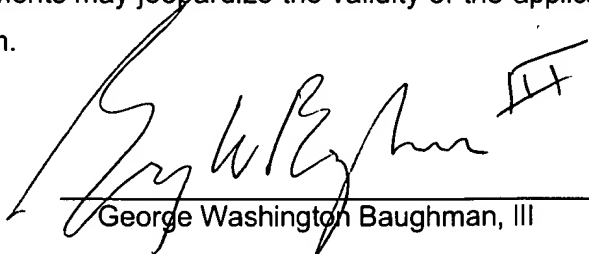

George Washington Baughman, III declares as follows:

- 1) That he is a citizen of the State of Ohio, having a residence at 833 Lake Shore Drive, Worthington, Ohio 43235;
- 2) That he is an inventor named in the above-identified application for United States Patent;
- 3) That he submitted a declaration under 37CFR § 1.132 dated July 9, 2003 in conjunction with the above-identified application for United States patent and he affirms and reasserts the statements made therein, such initial declaration being annexed hereto as an Exhibit A.
- 4) That he has been advised that claims 1-17 have been rejected under §103 of the Patent Statute as being unpatentable over Pool, U. S. Patent No. 2,638,636 (Pool) in view of Feleppa, U. S. Patent No. 5,700,102 (Feleppa) and Thornton, U. S. Patent No. 3,673,720 (Thornton) and Reilley et al., U. S. Patent No. 5,120,941 (Reilley et al.), Glass, U. S. Patent No. 6,148,551 (Glass), Flea Market Slide Show, and Howes, Jr., U. S. Patent No. 3,982,758 (Howes);
- 5) That he reasserts the commentary in his earlier declaration, Exhibit A with respect to Pool, Feleppa, Thornton, and Reilley, et al.;
- 6) That Glass was described by the Examiner as disclosing a banner being made of Nylon and that overhead signage extending inwardly from a signage support within a shopper line of sight region to a lower border adjacent a bay access elevation would allow for the easy advertisement of the available products as taught by Thornton and Glass;

- 7) That Glass describes a trailer mounted inflatable balloon carrying a Velcro mounted Nylon banner with plastic letters/numbers, which banner is described as six feet wide and four feet high;
- 8) That Glass fails entirely to suggest overhead signage extending downwardly from an upper signage support with a shopper line of sight region to a lower border adjacent a bay access elevation;
- 9) That the utilization of Nylon as described in the application is in conjunction with pennant-shaped flags which carry no message and are utilized as visual stimulators by virtue of the kinetic action of the Nylon structures;
- 10) That the Nylon message banner shown in Glass is non-moving and is attached to the surface of the balloon with Velcro straps;
- 11) That Glass teaches against the precepts of the invention as described and claimed in the above-identified application for United States patent;
- 12) That he is advised that the Examiner has asserted at page 4 that having a plurality of merchandising bays extending adjacent the poles and suspending merchandise information signage from the signage support at said boundary along the bays would enable the separate advertisement of the available merchandise as taught by Thornton and the Flea Market Slide Show;
- 13) That the Flea Market Slide Show is page two of ten of a Flea Market Inc. home page;
- 14) That he has accessed the entire website of Flea Market Slide Show and a print-out thereof is annexed hereto as Exhibit B;
- 15) That examination of the entire website shows that a citation of only page two of ten is misleading;
- 16) That the website indicates that the Flea Market is the San Jose California Flea Market which is described as a small city with a life of its own;
- 17) That the cited page two of ten describes a "Summer Brew Fest";
- 18) That also contained at the subject home page is another photograph of a "Summer Brew Fest" which is page 10 of 10 and shows that the Summer Brew Fest takes place in one or more permanently erected buildings with rigid structurally designed sides and roofs;
- 19) That the website information indicates that about 1,000 permanent buildings have been erected at the San Jose Flea Market;
- 20) That the information provided at the San Jose Flea Market website indicates that the buildings are available for rental;
- 21) That the subject website at page 6 of 10 shows a method of presenting merchandise as opposed to a method for serving food as represented at pages 2 of 10 and 10 of 10.

- 22) That the aforesaid page 6 of 10 shows merchandising as taking place in a permanent building, a method and system teaching against the invention described in the above-identified application for United States patent;
- 23) That the San Jose Flea Market represents a facility with permanently erected buildings, a concept teaching against precepts of the invention described and claimed in the above-identified application for United States patent;
- 24) That the system and method taught in the above-identified application for United States patent is one generally intended for erection on a seasonal basis in a retail facility parking lot;
- 25) That the information provided in the San Jose Flea Market website shows that the parking facility is on the opposite side of the <sup>road</sup> ~~side~~ from the flea market itself;
- 26) That he has been advised that in rejecting claim 4 the Examiner states that the Flea Market Slide Show shows a canopy covering a market place to provide shelter;
- 27) That the Flea Market reference of the Examiner illustrates only a sign hanging in a permanent building, a feature teaching against the precepts of the instant invention;
- 28) That he has been advised that in rejecting claims 5 and 6 the Examiner has indicated that the signage information is taught by the Flea Market Slide Show;
- 29) That the only teaching in the Flea Market reference is that of hanging a sign in a permanent building;
- 30) That he has been advised that in rejecting claims 18-26 the Examiner again describes Flea Market Slide Show as showing signage at 10-12 feet;
- 31) That the Flea Market Slide Show reference is only concerned with the hanging of a sign in a permanent building, a feature teaching against the precepts of the instant invention;
- 32) That the Examiner has improperly combined Glass and the Flea Market Slide Show with Pool, Feleppa, Thornton and Reilley, et al.;
- 33) That all statements made herein of his own knowledge are true and that all statements made on information and belief are believed to be true, and further that these statements were made with the knowledge that willful false statements and the like, so made, are punishable by fine, or imprisonment, or both, under § 1001 of Title 18, and that such willful false statements may jeopardize the validity of the application or any document resulting therefrom.
- Further Declarant sayeth naught.

Flea Market History

Smack-dab in the heart of Silicon Valley, the global center of technological innovation, sits a bustling 120 acre land bastion of "no tech" business that host 80,000 visitors a week, more than 4 million people a year! Largest open-air market in the country, some say in the world. The popular San Jose Flea Market flourishes in apparent contradiction to Silicon Valley's high tech image. And yet, as the product of one man's entrepreneurial drive and passionate commitment to an innovative concept, the Flea Market represents the very essence of Silicon Valley.

In 1959, George Bumb had the seedling of an idea. He was in the solid waste, landfill business. He kept seeing all these wonderful things getting thrown away and felt there had to be a profitable way to sell them to people who would want them.

Hearing of the success of swap meets, which were just getting started in Los Angeles, Bumb traveled to Southern California and saw how the meets were organized and held at drive-in theater lots. Bumb took the swap meet approach and expanded it to encompass individual merchant stalls, with on-site product storage. That way the merchants could keep their product at the market during the week, even though the market sales at first were conducted on weekends only.

This granddaddy of U.S. flea markets opened its gates in March of 1960, with 20 sellers and about 100 curious customers on what was once an abandoned cattle feed lot. With $7,000 in Cash, Bumb started the Flea Market on farmland on Berryessa Road, then a narrow country lane surrounded by orchards.

It was a cautious beginning. The first office, staffed part-time by family members, housed the only restrooms and snack bar on the original 35 acres. The spartan menu offered homemade sandwiches, basic beverages, and some candy.

Today, The Flea Market averages more than 6,000 sellers each week and is home to 30 snack bars, street vendors, and sit down restaurants offering a delectable variety of international and American classic foods, plus more than 60 roving snack and beverage carts specially designed by the Bumb family.

From its initial handful of family members and part-time employees, The Flea Market has grown to encompass 500 service employees carefully trained and supervised by Ogden Entertainment Services, along with a direct Flea Market staff of 150 people who work in management, construction, food service, and maintenance.

The Flea Market property encompasses about 1,000 small buildings, 1,000 open-air stalls, and all sorts of amenities. One thing Bumb is fanatical about is having an adequate number of restrooms that are extremely clean and maintained.

The Flea Market is completely self sufficient, building everything here ourselves, we have generators, water pumps, sewage holding tanks, everything needed to sustain the market through a weekend if there's a failure of power, water, or sewer services.

And what draws the hordes of visitors Wednesday through Sunday all year long, from dawn to dusk? A better question might be what doesn't draw them. At this flea market, you can find anything from toys to tires. The Flea Market's quarter mile long produce row is the busiest outdoor produce market in California and features produce from local farms and around the world.
